

Welcome to another issue of Treescape® News. It has been a busy and exciting start to 2019, and we have lots to share.

Our Safety journey is building great momentum, with a continued strong focus on identifying and managing risk and reducing incidents. We are well ahead of injury reduction target, which is great news and it's fantastic to see the number of safety engagements undertaken throughout the business. As part of our commitment to managing risk in our communities, we've now launched a Poisonous Plants & Shrubs Guide. Some really interesting reading.

Our Treescape® Training Academy is in full swing, and in the next issue we will have some exciting news about our engagement with the UK Arboriculture Colleges and Job Fairs we are attending in London and Manchester. It's all part of selling our story overseas and understanding what we can learn or share with other countries.

Great news on the contracts front. We retained our Wellington Electricity contract at re-tender. We were put through our paces in what was a tough, but great process. You can read about how we did it. Well done to Kevin Birdsall and Wellington team.

There's quite a bit happening in our industry at present with some high profile tree failures, and proposed changes to how industry training will be delivered, so its timely that Treescape® has re-engaged with the NZ Arboriculture Association. I've just joined the Executive, so looking forward to updating you on industry matters in future.

Lastly, as part of our partnership with the New Zealand National Foundation for the Deaf, it was great to be one of 39 Treescapers participating in Auckland's Round the Bays fun run/walk on Sunday 3 March. Beautiful weather, and supporting the Foundation to raise awareness of the thousands of New Zealanders living with hearing loss.

Kind regards

James Fletcher,
Treescape® CEO

Health & Safety

Poisonous Plants & Shrubs Guide

Look out for hazardous plants!

Knowing what's in your garden before you handle or destroy it is essential to prevent skin irritation, allergies and sickness.

New Tender win

Wellington Electricity

Great news Treescape® has won the tender to remain the primary vegetation management contractor to Wellington Electricity.

It was a tough tender and winning the contract is a recognition of our proven performance and credible history. We look forward to continuing to partner with them.
